Support steel or kiss it goodbye

Threat of shutdown fuels movement's rally, call for fair trade practices

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Steel is rooted so firmly in Granite City it seems impossible to even imagine it would disappear. It is a possibility, say supporters of a national movement, if the federal government continues to allow unfair foreign steel trade practices.

Inexpensive foreign steel dumped on American markets could even lead to shutting down Granite City Steel's three galvanized lines.

On Tuesday, members of the national Stand Up For Steel Coalition — including local company managers, union leaders and politicians — will host a rally to ask the community to "Stand Up For Steel." The rally is scheduled for 4:30-6:30 p.m. near Granite City Steel between 20th and 21st streets.

The coalition includes 20 steel producers nationwide and the United Steelworkers of America, said Walt Jones, a Local 30 vice president. Stand Up For Steel is trying to raise public awareness about the serious problems of imported steel, he said. "Imports coming in is almost 50 percent of what our capabilities are in this country," Jones said. American factories are capable of producing 106 million tons a year. Based on July figures, foreign steel is coming in at about 48 million tons a year. The problem, Jones and others (See STEEL, Page 6A)

County Board dumps fight over island

Annexation deal passes 25-1

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

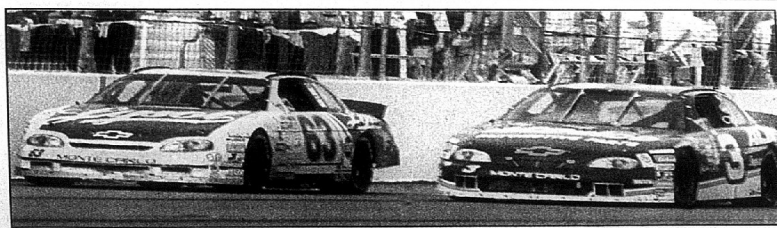

An agreement between the cities of Madison, Venice, Granite City and Madison County about the annexation of Chouteau Island was approved overwhelmingly by the Madison County Board Wednesday. A resolution allowing the agreement was approved 25-1, with Board Member Pat Polley, who is also Chouteau Township Supervisor, dissenting. The agreement stems from Madison's 1996 annexation of the Chain of Rocks Landfill and Chain of Rocks Bridge on the island and a subsequent lawsuit by the Madison County State's Attorney's Office. It gives the way for the city of

Image overhaul sought

City Council pledges to cooperate with Solid Granite

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Image enhancement is the key to Granite City's future, says Casmer Skubish. The alderman made his remarks during Tuesday's City Council meeting just before members adopted a resolution saying they would cooperate and work jointly with Solid Granite Inc. and all other interested and concerned residents who want to clean up and improve the city's quality of life. "The Solid Granite movement is a very good group of people who (want) to enhance the welfare of this community so it will be a better place to live and work," Skubish said.

more attractive for people wanting to live here," he said. Solid Granite Inc., a non-profit corporation several community leaders and residents formed in 1997, wants to enhance the image and quality of city living and business through promoting community development and civic growth.

Ideas include recreating Granite City into the cleanest industrial city in America; redesigning the city's entry corridors to be the most attractive in the Midwest; creating new residential neighborhoods while removing all blighted neighborhoods in the city; redeveloping commercial districts, downtown and Nameki Village into quality

Police bust man in prostitution sting

By Scott Kelly

Scriptwriters for television's "NYPD Blue" couldn't have come up with a better plot.

Through well-planned and executed undercover work, Granite City detectives nailed a local man who now stands accused of selling underage girls for sexual favors. Late Friday night, Granite City police arrested Leotis "Red" D. Mitchum, 33, of the 3100 block of Edwardsville Road in Granite City after Mitchum approached the wrong man. An alert resident first tipped police to the underage prostitution. According to police reports, Mitchum approached a local merchant and asked if he would be interested in prostitutes. The suspect said he had "a lot of girls" and usually commanded $50 for their services.

The resident declined, but Mitchum gave him his pager number just in case the businessman changed his Mark McSwire. All these heroes, real and imagined, invoke images of strength, power and determination, but the greatest superheroes are sometimes right in front of you.

Dan Brown, chairman for the 1998 Tri-Cities Area United Way Fall Campaign, talked about heroes at a breakfast meeting Tuesday morning

Those who give prove real heroes, Brown says to update the community on fund-raising efforts. "As we've grown older, we've realized that most heroes aren't in the books or on the screen," Brown said. "Instead they live and work right next to us. They are ordinary people who go out of their way to make their community a better place to live and work." This year's goal is to raise $1.3 million, an amount needed to support local health and human services organizations. As of Tuesday, Brown said, the campaign was 64 percent complete.

"We still have a long way to go. We still have to bring in the last $500,000," Brown said.

Several community leaders assumed the identities of superheroes to read off the accomplishments of

Marching Illini to perform with Warriors

The Marching Warriors are hosting the Marching Illini this Saturday. Granite City High School band director Ben Jackels said the Marching Warriors will host the famed University of Illinois Marching Illini Saturday afternoon.

The Marching Illini will be in town for a performance Sunday afternoon during the St. Louis Rams' matchup against the San Francisco 49ers at the Trans World Dome in St. Louis. The joint performance of both the Marching Illini and Marching Warriors will take place at 3 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Also on Saturday, the band is scheduled to take part in the Greater St. Louis Marching Band Competition, also at the TWA Dome. They will also take part in the Illini Marching Festival at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana Oct. 31.

The band will take part in the St. Louis competition at 11 a.m. Admission is free to both events.

Council courting national attention

Several publications tout Metro East as ideal location for business, opportunity

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

About six years ago, the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois took a look at what Missouri residents thought and knew about southwestern Illinois.

They found out that Missourians thought little and knew less about Illinois.

The council then began building relationships across the river. That was successful, so they started to branch out nationally.

Now that is apparently successful, too.

The September edition of Outlook magazine, which bills itself as the "business solution source for senior executives who run America's fastest-growing and expanding companies," describes southwestern Illinois as "booming."

The publication cites MidAmerica Airport and Gateway International Raceway as examples and thousands of acres of land with access to a fully integrated transportation system as the reason southwestern Illinois is a hot spot for development.

In its August-September 1998 issue, Plants, Sites and Parks notes that Dial Corporation chose southwestern Illinois as the site for its new distribution center because of its central location. It quotes a Dial spokesman as saying, "...it's a fabulous facility and the people in the county couldn't be nicer — they are amazingly cooperative." The center is located near the intersection of Interstate 255 and 270.

Plants, Sites and Parks is among the top national publications serving the field of site and office location, facility planning and plant expansion. About the 812,000 square-foot Dial Corp. facility, the magazine adds, "The company searched for space in several states and had considered expanding in Missouri, but (the spokesman said) 'we couldn't get that kind of space elsewhere.'"

An October special issue of Expansion Management reviews research parks across the country and refers to the "unique benefits" of those affiliated with universities, such as combining business acumen with the resources of a university. It refers to University Park and its relationship with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville as an example.

The fourth publication, National Real Estate Investor, includes Illinois in their St. Louis city review. The article highlights the availability of affordable land in St. Charles County and Illinois as well as mentioning office and hotel development projects under way in Fairview Heights.

"Plants, Sites and Parks, Expansion Management, National Real Estate Investor and Outlook are well-respected national publications. Corporate site location managers use them to identify ideal locations for relocation or expansion," said Jim Pennekamp, executive director of the council. "Being recognized nationally is a first for our region and says a lot about what we have to offer and what we're doing to attract business."

Pennekamp said there was "a method to their madness" in promoting the area.

For many years, the council, local politicians and economic development groups have emphasized improving the infrastructure — especially transportation — to attract business. Since much of that has been completed, the council is now trying to promote the area, both regionally and nationally.

The council expanded its marketing communications program this year to reach a larger Midwestern and national audience in an effort to create jobs in southwestern Illinois. Earlier this year, southwestern Illinois also was written about in Midwest Real Estate News, Illinois Real Estate Journal and Midwest Real Estate Properties.

"When we started this (about six years ago), we did some research to determine what folks in Missouri thought about Illinois, and what they knew about Illinois," Pennekamp said. "Folks in Missouri had absolutely no knowledge about what was going on in Illinois."

"Those kinds of things will continue to be done, but it was also time for us to start communicating with a much broader market, a national market," he said.

So about a year ago, the council began courting national attention. By spotlighting developments such as Gateway International Raceway, MidAmerica Airport, and the Dial Corp. warehouse, Pennekamp said they can show developers "a dynamic economy, a diversified economy where business can prosper."

"We've had remarkable success," he said. "We have a very very good product to sell. I think it bodes well for the future of this two-county area as long as the economy holds and businesses are in an expansion mode."

Holbrook holds office hours

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Tuesday was a slow day for State Rep. Tom Holbrook — who is uncontested in his re-election bid — spent his morning meeting with constituents at the Venice Township offices.

However, by about 10:30 a.m., only one had showed up — someone who wanted information about the circuit breaker program.

Holbrook was philosophic about it, saying that sometimes nobody shows up, but at other times he might have 50 people with whom to talk.

And being there to talk to them is a big part of his job. In addition to representing his people in the legislature — actual voting on issues — Holbrook said a big part of his job is helping people deal with what he calls the "octopus" of state bureaucracy.

He said the circuit breaker program was typical, and many of his constituents come to him for help in figuring it out.

Designed to help seniors and low-income residents, he said the income threshold for the program was recently increased to $16,000 from $14,000, making more people eligible.

Dealing with the issues of the elderly and education take up much of his time with constituents, he said.

That ranges from nursing home problems — he said approximately 75 percent of the local nursing home residents are on some kind of public aid — to the expulsion of a student at a local high school for having a cellular telephone at a football game.

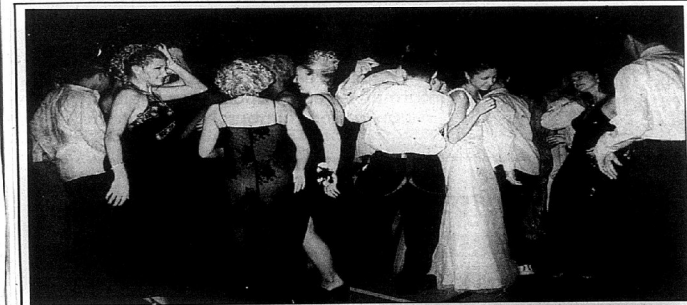

In that case, he said a parent gave his son a cellular telephone to call him after a football game was over. Most school districts banned cellular telephones and pagers as part of legislation passed a few years ago to deal with drug problems. Holbrook said he put them in touch with the Attorney General's office to obtain clarification on the intent of the law.

With elections coming up, the legislature is about to pass. By law, this year they could only deal with "emergency issues" and the budget, but Holbrook said they do find ways to conduct other business.

Next year, he said education will probably be a big topic, especially with the turnover in statewide elected offices.

His next constituent meeting will be from 9:30-11 a.m. Wednesday at the Nameoki Township Hall, 4250 Illinois 162. His office numbers are 394-2211 for Belleville, 451-0200 for Granite City and (212) 782-0104 for Springfield.

Get down — Granite City High school held its homecoming dance Saturday in the school gym, which was decorated by Champion's Party Room. The GCIS Student Council put on the dance and served drinks. King was Blake Shepard, and queen was Amy Pennell. Above, students dance the night away. At right, Vicki Foresahe and Kien Tran share a dance.

State rep. encourages all to vote

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Major changes in Illinois politics may be here soon because of the upcoming elections, but those changes may be decided by only 10-15 percent of the population, said State Rep. Tom Holbrook, D-Belleview.

While meeting with constituents at the Venice Township Hall Tuesday, Holbrook strongly encouraged people to get out and vote, regardless of what party they supported.

Holbrook said he has been told that the Nov. 3 election is expected to be the lowest voter turnout in Illinois history — about 29 percent.

For Democrats, the race between U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard and Secretary of State George Ryan is the first real chance in a long time to take control of the governor's office.

Although Democrat Poshard is behind in the polls, Holbrook said he expects the race to be close.

While unwilling to make any specific predictions, he said that after the elections are over, there will be some Democrats holding statewide offices. All statewide elected offices are now held by Republicans.

In the race for the U.S. Senate, he said incumbent Carol Mosely-Braun — who is trailing challenger Sen. Peter Fitzgerald in the polls — has a good voting record, but is hampered by a lack of funds, political missteps and an impression by downstate voters that she does not care about them.

He said she has an outstanding record of supporting labor and health care reform, but her views on controversial subjects such as abortion and gun control don't go over well with many downstaters.

Mosely-Braun has also been criticized for not appearing in the Metro East area during the campaign. Holbrook said she was in Belleville Thursday for a Democratic fund-raiser, but didn't take proper advantage of it.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

During a marriage, a couple will frequently incur bills for which they are jointly liable. In some cases, the original credit application was in both names. In other instances, one spouse may have made the purchase, but the other is equally responsible because of the Family Expense Statute in Illinois. This law provides that if one spouse purchases an item for the use of the family, both husband and wife are liable for the debt.

The question usually arises as to what becomes of these joint obligations in the event of a divorce. The judgment of dissolution will normally provide that one or the other spouse is to pay the outstanding bills. What happens in the event the party ordered to pay in the divorce decree is unable to fulfill his obligation? Can the ex-husband or ex-wife, who thought they were "off the hook," still be looked to to satisfy the debt?

In one recent case, a husband and wife jointly incurred a substantial amount of debt during the marriage. There were charge cards, two car notes, and an outstanding loan in the amount of $15,000. When the couple decided to get divorced, the husband was ordered to pay these outstanding obligations.

After the divorce, the ex-husband fell on hard times. He lost his job and was unable to pay the debts. The creditors decided to pursue the former wife, and she found herself back in court, having been sued by all the creditors. She argued to the judge that she should not be held responsible since the divorce decree ordered her ex-husband to pay these bills. The judge pointed out to her that the terms of the divorce were not binding on the original creditors, and that they could still pursue her.

In most cases, a creditor will not rewrite a note to remove one spouse's name. The creditor would rather have two responsible parties to pursue if necessary, rather than one. The ex-wife's remedy in a case such as this is to bring her ex-husband into court and seek payment from him for the indebtedness she is being forced to pay. It should be noted, however, that this will not serve much of a purpose if the ex-husband is destitute. She may, in fact, get stuck with the bills she thought she did not owe.

Candidate: Record speaks louder than recent hearing

Lawsuit against Churchich alleges sexual discrimination

MADISON COUNTY

By Darryl Howlett
Staff writer

Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich is not concerned that Monday's hearing in a sexual discrimination suit against him will have any effect on his re-election bid.

"My record shows I have done more for women and blacks in the (sheriff's) department in the history of Madison County," he said.

Patricia Papa, 38, a sergeant with the department, is alleging that Churchich did not promote her to the position of jail lieutenant in March 1996 because of her gender.

Papa is also seeking damages for lieutenant's back pay, as well as for emotional stress for being transferred for seven months from her normal day shift to the midnight shift on the same day she met with Churchich in April 1996 to discuss the reasoning for not being promoted.

Churchich, a Democrat, is seeking his fourth term in office. He is running against Republican candidate Bob Hulme.

Hulme said fairness in promotions should apply in the sheriff's department.

"I believe in fairness in all aspects of government. If she was eligible for promotion, she should have been promoted," he said.

"You should be very objective when handling promotions and personnel," he said.

Churchich was first elected Madison County Sheriff in 1988.

"You should be very objective when handling promotions and personnel. I was disappointed to hear that this allegedly was happening. I'm opposed to any type of discrimination."

Bob Churchich
Madison County sheriff

Churchich also believes the case will not have an effect on Churchich's re-election bid.

"At this point it's allegations and this is the first stage of hearings," he said.

Churchich said he is satisfied with the hearing.

"I think it was handled very well, very fairly," he said. "This is just normal. Anytime you have 147 employees, you're not always going to agree with them."

Papa's attorney, Rich Frazier, was also pleased with the hearing.

"It went extremely well. I think the Sheriff was our best witness," he said. "I think we proved that retaliation was the reason why he transferred Patty Papa to the midnight shift. I think we proved that Papa was treated unfairly for not being promoted to lieutenant."

Churchich was first elected Madison County Sheriff in 1988.

Man charged with reckless conduct after allegedly using car in scuffle

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

An Edwardsville man was charged with five counts of reckless conduct for attempting to run down several Granite City residents with his car Oct. 11.

Richard Jones of Edwardsville was taken into custody when officers caught up to him after he crashed his car into a tree on Kilarney Drive.

According to police reports, Jones became involved in an argument late that night between a man and his girlfriend, both of whom were outside a house on the 2500 block of Northridge.

The man told police that Jones had approached the couple and told him to leave the girl alone. He told Jones the altercation was none of his business, whereupon the two started fighting, police said.

Jones hit the man in the head. The man, in turn, tackled Jones. A friend and a neighbor came and separated the two, police said. The suspect then got in his vehicle and attempted to run down several people with his van, including the man and those who broke up the fight.

One of those people had merely come outside to see what was going on, residents told police.

Jones then drove from the area. At that point, police gave chase, and Jones crashed into a tree.

The State's Attorney's office charged him with five counts of reckless conduct and one count of battery. He posted bail and was released from jail Oct. 13.

NEWS

AROUND THE AREA

Here's what happened around the Metro East in the past week:

East St. Louis

College board votes to dissolve district

Like students at Metropolitan Community College, civic leaders are split on how to best bring about change at the institution.

But they agree that change is needed. A report released last week by a group of community college representatives studying MCC since May states that the college has "insurmountable" problems that require immediate action by the school's state overseers.

The Illinois Community College Board, which appointed the study group in May, took that action Friday and dissolved the college district as of Jan. 1.

It was the first time in the state's history a college district created by a vote of district residents has been dissolved. The local Board of Trustees will be replaced by a six-member advisory committee of one state community college president, one state college trustee, two state college administrators and one representative of the former college district.

The college will be funded by the state until the ICCB determines by June 2000 how to maintain the East St. Louis campus. The report recommends annexation to an existing college district or permanently contracting for educational services.

Cahokia

School board expels 6 students

The Cahokia Board of Education expelled six students Wednesday for bringing weapons to school.

Five of them were expelled for the rest of the school year, Superintendent Bob Bresnahan said Thursday. The board also expelled a kindergarten student until the second semester starts Jan. 21.

Students cannot attend a public school in Illinois while they are expelled, Bresnahan said. They may attend out-of-state public schools or private or parochial schools.

The weapons included a BB gun and a gun that shoots plastic pellets, Bresnahan said. The students did not shoot the weapons and no one was hurt.

Administrators have been stressing the "no-tolerance" policy throughout the district's classrooms after a spate of recent incidents involving weapons.

Belleville

Money in place for MetroLink

No more local funding will be needed for the MetroLink extension in St. Clair County, a Bi-State official said.

"The sales tax that was passed in November '93 is sufficient for the construction of MetroLink out to BAC," said Greg Northcutt, deputy executive director, engineering and construction for Bi-State. "I don't anticipate any more funding from local residents for the project."

Northcutt made his comments during a MetroLink open house on Tuesday at MidAmerica Airport.

Northcutt said there was a good possibility of a 50-50 split between the federal government and Illinois to fund the remainder of the project for a total of $120 million.

Opponents stand firm against school referendum

Opponents of the $46 million referendum to construct a new Belleville West High School and renovate Belleville East have regrouped and are urging residents to vote no on the proposition.

Citizens to Save Belleville West and West Belleville met on Oct. 14 in the Belleville West High School cafeteria.

Supporters of the referendum also met the same night to try to get the measure passed. Don Bertelsmann, the unofficial leader of Citizens, said there are many reasons for not passing the referendum, including that the District 201 School Board did not ask the Pastoral Group for an estimate to renovate Belleville West High School, Bertelsmann said.

He said he does not understand why District 201 would not contact a group that did a good job for another client.

Bertelsmann said the school also has historical significance for the city.

"It has a history dating back to 1915, when the first building was erected and the first class entered school," Bertelsmann said. "I always thought it was an educational, cultural and social hub of that part of west Belleville. It has an impact on the West Main Street corridor."

BRIEFLY

Hazardous waste collection set

In conjunction with the Illinois Environmental Protection Day, Granite City Steel Division of National Steel is sponsoring a household hazardous waste collection day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at 1417 State St.

The collection will be set up at the south plant parking lot. Certified waste disposal personnel will be on hand to take care of the waste.

Items collectors will accept include household paints, paint thinner, herbicides, insecticides, pesticides, old gasoline, pool chemicals, cleaning products, car batteries-lead acid batteries, household batteries, used motor oil, drain cleaners, lawn chemicals, solvents, anti-freeze, hobby chemicals, aerosol paints and pesticides and fluorescent light bulbs.

Items that will not be accepted are agricultural wastes, business-commercial sector wastes, explosives, fireworks, propane tanks, cylinders, smoke detectors, farm machinery oil, fire extinguishers, yard waste, tires, refrigerators, stoves, water heaters or other household appliances. For more information, call 451-3459 or 451-3391.

Party set

The annual Venice Halloween Party for children will take place at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 31 at the Venice Recreation Center, located at 323 Broadway.

The party — sponsored by the city of Venice and area businesses — will feature prizes, games and food for children ages 1-12 in the Venice and Madison area.

Parents are encouraged to attend with their children.

Correction

In the Oct. 15 Granite City Press-Record, Don Adams, co-owner of several Granite City area businesses, was misidentified.

Adams, along with his long-time partner Jack Dempsey, was given the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Citizen's Achievement Award at the Chamber's annual meeting Oct. 8.

The Press-Record regrets the error.

mind. The merchant soon called police, not Mitchum.

Detectives first set up a plan to catch Mitchum in the act but backed off out of concern for an officer's safety. Detectives then arranged another meeting with Mitchum on Friday, using the suspect's pager number.

When Mitchum and the undercover officer met, Mitchum repeatedly asked if the detective was a officer.

Using profanity, Mitchum eventually led the detective to Mitchum's car to have the prospective "client" prove he wasn't a cop through a demonstration with his prostitute.

The detective succeeded in avoiding the "test." Eventually, Mitchum went back into the meeting place, leaving the detective with the adult prostitute. Immediately, the detective signaled other officers to make an arrest. In Mitchum's car, police found an ID belonging to an underage girl.

At Mitchum's given address, police found another juvenile girl, a runaway, and the other underage girl who matched the ID. Police also found crack cocaine, crack pipes and metal pokers.

The Madison County State's Attorney's office charged Mitchum with soliciting a juvenile prostitute, a felony, and possession of a controlled substance.

As of Tuesday, Mitchum was in custody at the Madison County Jail, with bond set at $100,000 for the solicitation offense and $75,000 for the possession offense. If convicted, he could face at least six to 15 years in prison.

agree, is that Russian and Asian steel is shipped to this country without a buyer and is left sitting on docks until a buyer materializes. The buyers can scoop up cheap steel for $100 a ton, less than can be offered domestically, he said.

It is having a devastating effect on the steel industry and certainly has an effect on Granite City community, Jones said.

"It's not a union issue nor a company issue, but it's (about) the survival of our community," Jones said.

National Steel, Granite City Steel's parent company, recently shut down one of its three blast furnaces in Detroit.

Granite City Steel itself is looking at shutting down its galvanized lines in December, Jones said. Already, company managers and employees are making plans for layoffs and vacations in case no more orders come in. Jones said the mill has orders for November and December, but usually the plant has orders for six months in advance.

"We need the public's help," he said. "We're not looking to stop foreign steel but to pull it back to a level playing field."

Bob Maxwell, representative for Granite City Steel, joined Jones in spreading the word. "Normally when you sell steel someplace, you have someone that's going to buy it," Maxwell said. "They're shipping steel over, and it's sitting in parking lots in New Orleans and on the docks in Detroit for people to come down and buy."

"It's very serious," he said. Federal legislators are the ones who can really stop it, he said, but locally, everyone can help. The Madison City Council adopted a resolution Tuesday to do what it can to stop the "flood of unfairly traded steel." The Granite City Council is expected to adopt a similar resolution Oct. 27, the same day as the rally. Congress is working on the problem, the House passed a resolution last week and sent it to the Senate for approval. Those who come to the rally

"It's not a union issue nor a company issue, but it's the survival of our community."

Walt Jones

Tuesday will be asked to sign a pledge to be sent to Washington. Entertainment starts at 4 p.m.

Union leaders, management and politicians will speak, and organizers will provide free sweatshirts, hot dogs and stickers.

Deal

agreement was a resolution to allow a section dealing with the city of Madison's legal fees for the court battle.

Repayment of that figure — initially $50,000 — will be subject to future negotiations. Land Use Committee Chairman Jack Frandsen spoke briefly before the vote.

"If we don't accept this agreement, we get nothing," he said.

The most controversial matter in the agreement is the potential expansion of the Chain of Rocks Landfill, owned by Waste Management Inc.

The agreement calls for each of the participating governmental bodies to support the expansion of the landfill. It is expected to be full by 2002, and local environmentalists have vowed to oppose any expansion.

Madison County Conservation Alliance President Kathy Andria said she was not surprised by the vote.

Although Madison city officials said they wanted to annex the property to provide service to the Chain of Rocks Bridge — now undergoing renovation as a pedestrian-bicycle trail — the landfill and its potential expansion takes up most of the agreement.

"It's about a landfill and expanding a landfill," she said. She added that landfills can provide a great deal of money for local municipalities, but she would adamantly oppose any expansion.

"A landfill should not be on an island in the middle of the Mississippi River. Period," she said.

Under the agreement, each of the cities and the county would split proceeds of a new host agreement with Waste Management Inc.'s Chouteau Island landfill, with Madison receiving approximately 70 percent and each of the others receiving 10 percent. The county also would continue to receive its "tipping fee" from the landfill. Madison Mayor John Hamm, who attended Wednesday's county board meeting, said previously that agreement would probably bring in a total of about $300,000 per year.

If an expansion of the landfill would be approved, that percentage would change. Madison would receive 65 percent, while Granite City would receive 15 percent. The county and Venice's percentage would remain unchanged.

Also part of the agreement which now must be approved by Madison, Venice and Granite City — Granite City would take control of the Port District and Lock and Dam 27, while the city of Madison would get property it already has annexed on Chouteau Island.

The Port Authority would not change. In addition, Madison would support Granite City's claim to federal land on the east side of the canal, while Granite City would support Madison's claim on the west side. Annexation of that land would require an act of Congress.

Kahoks-Tigers rivalry takes surprising turn

Collinsville vs. Edwardsville. Just the mention of the two high schools in the same breath is enough to get fans riled up. It's like the Hatfields and the McCoys. Ali and Fraizer.

"Collinsville against Edwardsville has always been a big rivalry, no matter what sport," retired Collinsville athletic director Frank Pitot said. "It could be even picking sweet corn."

"The two towns are so similar in many ways. The population. The proximity. Being in the same conference."

Well, that rivalry will be taken to the next level on Friday night when Edwardsville hosts Collinsville in the battle of two teams with perfect football records in the last regular-season game for each squad.

Who would of thunk it? Edwardsville has enjoyed much success in football in recent times, but Collinsville has been the laughing stock of the Southwestern Conference for the better part of the last three decades.

John Jackson brought back Collinsville football two years ago when the Kahoks qualified for the playoffs for the first time in the school's history. Jackson left and Tim Kane came aboard but produced only three "victories" last season in his first season. All three victories were forfeits because the teachers at those schools were on strike.

So, there was no inkling that on Oct. 23, 1998, that Edwardsville and Collinsville would be playing for the conference championship—and each sporting perfect records, to boot.

"This has to be among the top high school events in Collinsville history," says Pitot, not prone to exaggeration. "As far as regular-season game, we haven't had anything like this in football."

Joe Meyer, who served as 27 years as the sports editor of the Edwardsville Intelligencer, is also relishing in the big game.

"This is a first ever," he says. "I don't think Collinsville and Edwardsville were ever playing for the conference championship, much less with each team having perfect records. Edwardsville has won only five Southwestern football championships, and in two of those they tied for the title."

"No one expected this," Pitot said. "It was supposed to be Belleville East and East St. Louis battling it out for the football championship, not Collinsville and Edwardsville."

The Kahoks and Tigers have dispatched of their five previous SWC opponents on route to their perfect seasons. It would be folly to use comparative scores to pick a winner for Friday night's game, but let's do it anyway.

—Collinsville beat Belleville West by 19. Edwardsville won by 20.

—Collinsville beat Edwardsville by 12. Edwardsville won by 14.

—Collinsville beat Belleville East by 8. Edwardsville won by 39.

—Collinsville beat East St. Louis by 15. Edwardsville won by 7.

—Collinsville beat Alton by 42. Edwardsville won by 45.

So, the net is that Edwardsville has beaten its five SWC foes by a combined score of 116 points, and Collinsville has beaten them by 96. So, that means Edwardsville will win by 22 points? I don't think so.

What we do know is that Collinsville appears to be the more explosive team. Edwardsville will try to grind it out. Both have strong defenses. Edwardsville has the recent tradition. Collinsville is the new kid on the block. And Collinsville is ranked No. 3 in the Class 5A state rankings, and Edwardsville No. 9 in 6A.

"I just wish I could enjoy it more," says Edwardsville head football coach Tim Dougherty, who also doubles as the school's athletic director. "It's definitely better to be playing these types of game, rather than coaching or taking care of what an AD needs to take care of in games like these."

Advance tickets will be sold at each school. Dougherty encourages everyone to get to the game early, early. He said tickets will be sold at the gate.

"We'll get everyone in," he says. "But if you don't have your ticket in advance, but you better get there early or you'll probably miss the opening kickoff."

Dougherty said extra bleachers to accommodate between 800 and 1,000 fans will be brought in from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Extra security and parking attendants will be on hand.

Andy Ronk and the Granite City soccer team open postseason action Tuesday with a regional game against Alton or Springfield Southeast.

Versatile Simpson develops into leader for Granite City

Senior linebacker/tight end adds punting to job description

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

In the steady and forceful climb back to respectability, the Granite City football team has had a lot of heroes.

Quarterback Zack May's pinpoint precision, the blazing speed of Brooks Narvaez, the improvement of the offensive line, and Ryan Stagner's abuse of Alton, to the tune of 238 yards in relief, all have played a major part.

But the steady force all along has been senior Mike Simpson, keeping the team's fortunes serene with the promise of better days ahead. To Simpson, this gridiron business is old hat.

"I started playing my seventh grade year at Coolidge," Simpson said. "I played soccer before that, from when I was four years old. I actually played both my seventh and eighth grade years. I'd go to football practice and after that go to soccer."

"In high school you have to make a decision, because both are fall sports. I called my seventh grade football coach and I was talking to him about it. He told me to just choose whatever I liked more, and I really like hitting, so I went with football."

Simpson plays tight end and outside linebacker for the varsity Warriors, and this is the first season he has punted.

"I guess I get that from soccer," he said.

The start of the season looked atrocious, with tough losses to Cahokia, O'Fallon and Edwardsville.

"I think we've had a lot of disappointments, as far as wins and losses go, but I think we've done pretty well," he said. "We've had a lot of close games that we should have won, but it all comes with offseason training. We don't do as much of it as a lot of teams."

Simpson and quarterback Zack May have had something of a symbiotic relationship on the field since May started to air it out a few weeks ago.

"Zack didn't really get a chance to show a lot of what he had last year," Simpson said. "He started in the Alton game and that showed the coaches what he had."

"At the beginning of the season we didn't really start off throwing very much. I think he was a little bit shy about throwing deep, he liked to throw short. But since they've started making him throw I think he has a lot more confidence than he did. It's

Mistakes costly as Warriors lose 5-1 to Jr. Bills

Granite City faced a perennial powerhouse from St. Louis in a soccer game Monday night. St. Louis University High School made the trip to the Gauntlet and walked away with a 5-1 victory. "We could have played a lot better," Warriors senior Jason Hileman said. "We didn't play up to our potential. They really took it to us and gave us what we deserved for not sticking to our game plan."

"We're obviously very disappointed," Coach Gene Baker said. "We feel we can play a much better game than we did on the boards first less than three minutes into the game. Ricky Vigil got clear in the box and beat Warriors keeper Brandon Williams."

Granite City came back 17 minutes later. Warriors senior Nathan Nichols got his head on the ball and sent a nice back-pass to Bob Scott, who knocked home the equalizer.

The rest of the game was a Junior Bills onslaught. Vigil knocked a volley past Williams for the centennial game-winner in the 33rd minute.

Vigil added his third less than six minutes into the second half. He trapped the ball on the right side of the box, got it in the air and volleyed it over Williams' head. Dave Mingsu got open on the right side of the box and put away SLUH's fourth goal. On their fifth and final goal of the night, Mingsu whiffed and then sent a perfect back-pass to Kevin McCabe, who cranked one home.

The real problem on the field for the Warriors was that SLUH capitalized on every one of Granite City's mistakes, never letting them back in the game. With the score 4-1, the Junior Bills were sitting on the bench shouting encouragement for their team to score again.

"We're going to train and get into condition and go out and show what we really can do, starting with the sectionals," Hileman said.

"We gave one goal after another away on communication," Baker said. "That's what we will work on getting ready to go into the playoffs."

"We felt that we played pretty poorly against McCluer North (Saturday), but we outdid ourselves tonight. We felt that this would be a good barometer to go forward with, and you could see that there were times in the first half when we dominated them and then came back and gave one away. Come back another time, dominate them again, and then give another one away."

"We keep putting on the board, don't quit, don't quit. For instance, (SLUH) saw the bad habits of some of our guys slowing down. Instead of just clearing the ball hard, we'd settle it when they were on us. So they take advantage of that and play you."

"And it's the lack of attention. Two goals came from counterattacks when we were in their sixth, but they go all the way down the field and score, and it's just lack of attention."

"What we've been worried about is a little bit of a shutdown concerning the team being content with what they've done, and that might be the case. We've got to dig down deep and find it. We've got a week to repair, get ready, and we can't be satisfied with just the conference championship."

Warriors end season against E. St. Louis

Flyers powerful despite three losses

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City faces a stiff test in its last game of the season. This Friday the Warriors travel to East St. Louis to face the 5-3 Flyers.

Granite City head coach Nick Petrillo said, "They come at you and play real hard football."

"Defensively they are going to be very aggressive, they'll be swarming. They'll play a tough man-to-man defense and have very hard tackling. Their team speed is going to be something that we just can't emulate in our practices, but somehow, some way, we're going to have to be ready for that and do the very best that we can."

"Offensively they have the ability to score from anywhere on the field. We are going to have to find a way to contain that and try to force them to be a little more patient and run plays that we think we can contend with and not get beaten by the big play, whether it be a pass or a run."

It is not clear yet whether Warriors standout running back Brooks Narvaez will be ready to roll after spraining his ankle two weeks ago.

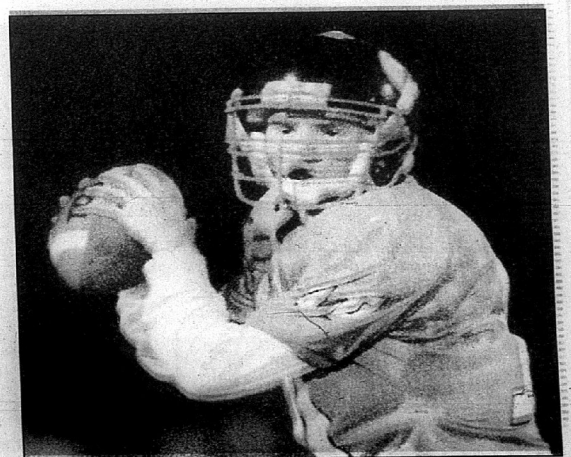

"He was questionable for the Alton game, and at this point it looks like he could be probable for Friday," Petrillo said. "It's all pending on an X-ray that he will be taking."

"He feels ready to go, but the exercises that he's been doing indicate that he's more willing with the head and heart than he is with the actual feet. But if he's ready to go and they give him a clearance, if he can run without a limp you'll see him in the backfield again."

If not, the Warriors will call on the Alton defense.

"He had a real good ballgame," Petrillo said. "I guess you could even say it was exceptional. When you push for 238 yards, that's just not a typical high school night. I think that probably ranks right up there with a lot of people in terms of individual performance."

Quarterback Zack May and the Granite City football team hope to end the season with a 4-5 record and a three-game winning streak.

Warrior sophomores hope to extend unbeaten streak

Squad is aiming for 17-0 mark over two years

"It's very unusual to have a team get along as well as these guys do."

Greg Garland
GCHS defensive coach

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City sophomore football team is on a two-year tear, and this afternoon they look to finish a perfect underclassmen run with a win over East St. Louis. Greg Garland is in charge of the defense, Carl Lehmann the offense.

"(Varsity) coach (Nick) Petrillo sends Carl and me to scout games for the varsity team," Garland said. "The sophomore team usually does what the varsity team does, so we go from there."

"At the sophomore level, it's really hard to predict what they are going to do. The varsity teams tend to move sophomores up and down, plugging holes. We tend to prepare like we're playing their varsity and that works well for us."

"We've had a few of our sophomores practice with the varsity through the week in preparation for the varsity game. Coach Petrillo likes to be two or three guys deep in case somebody gets hurt. It gives us at the sophomore level a chance to look at some other guys who haven't gotten a lot of time before. So it helps both sides."

Not that this bunch needs a lot of help. "This is the same group that went undefeated last year," Garland said. "We coached them as freshmen and moved up with them. So really they're 17-0 if you want to count the two years."

"I think it goes back to the second game of their freshman year. We beat O'Fallon, but we were losing for a half. It was a good character builder, because they learned that if each guy does his job, takes care of his responsibility, we'll have success as a team. They became a team that day."

"They back each other up and they are behind each other 100 percent. There is no finger pointing, no making fun of anybody. They care as much about the third-string guy as the first-stringers. It's very unusual to have a team get along as well as these guys do. They are a very unselfish group and that is why they have been successful."

Defensively, the Warriors count heavily on safety Josh Martin and cornerback Andy McTaggart.

"Both those guys have made a lot of interceptions for us this year," Garland said. "That's been one of our keys."

Aaron Wallis at defensive nose guard and Dan Watson at defensive end have done a great job for us. Between the two of them they have about 15 sacks this year. Marty Graham and Tom Pieper have also stepped up and done a good job for us on defense."

"The first defensive unit has only given up one touchdown in two years, and that was in the O'Fallon game their freshman year. They take a lot of pride in that. They don't want to be scored against."

The offense features Graham at running back, McTaggart at wide receiver, Martin at tight end, Josh Franco at quarterback, and Josh Wright at fullback. The offensive line of Justin York, Joe McLure, Jeff Hard, James Tapp and Bobby Grammer have led the way.

"Offensively we have averaged 35 points a game over the two years," Garland said. "I think Carl Lehmann has to be commended for that."

Garland and Lehmann will lose most of this successful year to varsity next year.

"We're looking forward to the kids moving up," Garland said. "It's going to be exciting, they're going to learn more football and get even better."

"Right now they have a real strong foundation of Nick Petrillo football."

Granite City's McKechan wins IHSA soccer award

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Illinois High School Soccer Association has named Granite City athletic director Jerry McKechan the winner of its 1998 Soccer Person of the Year Award in the Southwestern Section. McKechan is a finalist for the state award, which will be given out later this fall.

"It's an honor to be recognized by your peers and the people you work with," McKechan said. "We do a lot of things here in Granite City for soccer. We're very proud of our soccer tradition, and I've just been fortunate enough to be a part of it."

"With the Tournament of Champions, we put on a nice banquet; we have 16 teams that come in from Illinois and Missouri. That's not just me, that's with the help of a lot of other people. Bob Cowan has helped me tremendously, and of course the cooperation from Coach Baker is great."

"We always like to host the sectionals at SIUE with Edwardsville and Collinsville, and we also host the Class A state tournament. The reason that the three of us host that is that the IHSA told us that they would bring the Class AA down to our area, and somebody from this area will benefit from it."

"Last spring Mr. Baker put on a clinic at the Elks where we had coaches come from all over the Midwest. I feel very fortunate to work with people like Gene Baker. We couldn't do it without his help. He is the legend, he is Mr. Soccer. We put in the lodge. We moved the bleachers over to the near side with the concrete, with the help of Brad Evanston, and that's made it better. I've watched a soccer game. We painted the soccer ball in the middle of the field. Other people have tried to copy it, but there isn't another field in the Midwest that has that, and that's neat."

McKechan has taught at Granite City since 1973, and been the vice principal/athletic director for four years.

"I used to be the football coach," he said. "Here's a case of a football coach being recognized for soccer."

"We all love soccer and it's a situation where I like being here. I'm proud of the accomplishment but I couldn't have done it without the help of a lot of people — Bob Cowan, Coach Baker, and a lot of other people."

"We enjoy helping kids. I just care about the kids and about sports, and I'll do anything I can to help our athletes here at Granite City. That's why we're here. We're all in this together."

just up to us to catch it now." Simpson is the undisputed heart of this team and has played a large part in the turnaround on the field. "I try and play hard during anything," he said. "Whenever I feel that the guys are goofing off or not trying hard I try to pick everybody up as a team. I don't really put anybody down. After practice and before games I usually have a little pep talk with everybody. Mostly I just try to show leadership by playing hard."

"(After the early losses) I just told everybody that we were getting somewhere, that we had a lot to work for and that we were improving a lot." Head coach Nick Petrillo has seen the excellence Simpson provides from up close. "Mike kind of surprised us coming into the season," Petrillo said. "We thought he was going to be a role player, and as it turned out he became one of our more steady, consistent players. He is one of the few kids who is playing both ways for us, he very rarely gets off the field."

"On offense he caught the three touchdown passes against Belleville East, and not only surprised them but maybe mildly surprised us. We knew that he had really good hands, but being able to break it away for the touchdown was really great."

"Defensively he made an outstanding play in his responsibility of getting into the passing lane against Alton and picking off the pass that went for 45 yards, as it turned out, ended up being the deciding score. We won the game because of that."

"He's been a real stabilizing force, a real good steady force for us. Quite frankly we needed that, because we don't need a lot of peaks and valleys, and he's been on a really level keel."

The seniors on the football team have one game left — to make a lasting statement of their commitment. "I'd like to go out 4-5," Simpson said. "We haven't done that in a long time, and beating East St. Louis would be really great. I went and watched them play last Saturday against Belleville East. I think if we play with maturity as far as not letting other people talk and the fans talking get us down, if we play through all that and block everything out and play how we can, then we should beat them."

"I want to beat them. I think that would show a lot for Granite City and be a big improvement for the program. But if the games went how we wanted them to and we won the close ones with fewer mistakes, we would be at the top."

Simpson also plays forward on the varsity basketball team at Granite City, and his athletic future is still up in the air.

"I probably will play basketball for a lower division school," he said. "I didn't get a lot of varsity playing time last year. I haven't really talked to any colleges about football, but as far as schools I could play football at, I've thought about playing at Eastern Illinois."

The decision he made a long four years ago to stick with football has paid off for Mike Simpson, and for the Warriors.

"He doesn't complain, he understands his role, and he's mature for a senior on this football field," Petrillo said.

"He gives leadership in the sense of how he plays, not what he says but what he does."

"Besides the joy of it, I think football makes you a better person, more disciplined," Simpson said. "And more mature, because you have to take being yelled at and decide how you are going to handle that. It keeps you in shape and it keeps your grades up, because you have to have the grades to play. And like I said, I love hitting."

Thanksgiving soccer tournament

The O'Fallon Area Soccer Club is accepting applications for its second annual Thanksgiving Day Tournament, to be held at the Family Sportsplex in Belleville.

Registration is available in the U-7 (1991-92) to U-18 (1980-81) boys and girls, recreational and competitive divisions. Applications are also being taken in separate men's and women's under-30 and over-30 age groups.

For applications and information, call Stu Kasten at 632-2323.

"We knew that there were certain things that Ryan was capable of doing. We tried to put our offense with our different formations and our motion, and tried to create a situation where he could run the ball. He was able to run the counter sweep, power sweep and power play real well."

"It's a credit to our offensive line blocking as well. They worked really hard last week. The key on the counter sweep is the performance of the linemen, and they just did an excellent job, and Ryan did an excellent job of reading his keys on that blocking situation and he ran it for big yards. So that's a credit not only to him but to the linemen that were blocking in front of him. "Our linemen right now are pretty much underclassmen and they really have been improving. We're real happy with that, and we're thinking of next year. As they get bigger and stronger in the weight room and they work through our abilities, you have to anticipate they are going to be better and tougher kids. But it won't happen without work in the offseason."

Soccer

ship. Like every good Irishman, Baker found the happy cloud in all the badness.

"The sun is supposed to come up tomorrow."

As he gets ready for the playoffs, Baker has to make decisions on who best to lead his team to the promised land. "The idea is that we are going to have a team that comes to play," Baker said, "a team that plays with some heart and some focus and some spots. The guys in the offense are in the habit of making the play and then getting out, and it shows all the time. They make a play, they step out. There were times when we could have scored — they are stepping out and the ball is there to score."

"Like SLUH — at the very least, they are going to be attentive to what is going on all the time, and that's what we've been working on all year and we can't get it starts over every day and that is really frustrating. They want to nap and just go numb mentally and visually sometimes."

But things overall have been good this year, and they have to take advantage of that. "The Warriors are off until Tuesday, when they host the winner of the Alton-Springfield Southeast playoff game."

Rivalry

The expected crowd? Some are saying as many as 8,000. Dougherty isn't saying, other than he said everyone who wants to get in will get in.

The anticipated large crowd brings back memories of the annual Turkey Day game between East St. Louis and Belleville when crowds of 8,000 and more would regularly attend those games on Thanksgiving Day. Those were the days before the state playoffs.

"I played in a similar game when I was attending high school in Peoria," Dougherty said. "The two Catholic high schools in town — Bergan and Spalding — we would play on Thanksgiving Day. Both games would be at Peoria Stadium."

"It's great for high school sports that rivalries like Collinsville and Edwardsville still exist. It's been a healthy rivalry."

It will be even healthier come Friday night.

Q: Is it to my advantage to shop for funeral prices?

A: Yes, Definitely. The Federal Trade Commission requires that all funeral directors provide to the consumer a general price list, outlining the cost for services. Most funeral homes have packages for different types of services, i.e. Traditional, direct, Cremation and Anatomical Donor. It is important that the consumer know that the type of service they are paying for includes all items necessary, such as: register book, prayer cards, halldresser/barber, etc. A package should include these services and or items necessary to encompass a funeral from the moment the death occurs to the filing of the final insurance papers. A smart consumer chooses before need so logic overrules emotion.

NEWS IN REVIEW

Editor's note: News in Review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is intended for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record-Journals.

Victory for GIR, Dale Jr.

MADISON — More than 50,000 NASCAR fans got to see a hot race Saturday, but unlike last year, the race was the only thing that was hot.

Dale Earnhardt Jr. picked up his seventh NASCAR Busch Series Grand National Division win of the season in the CARQUEST Auto Parts 250 at Gateway International Raceway.

Earnhardt, who averaged 104.566 miles per hour, earned $48,555 and now holds a 102-point lead over Matt Kenseth with three races left in the season.

The race was the last "major" event at the track this year, and had a far different outcome from last year's race.

That race — held in July during the hottest weekend of the year — was marred by several heat-related deaths, a track that literally fell apart and many complaints about traffic.

This year's race was moved to October to avoid the first two problems, and track officials have been working on traffic.

GIR President and General Manager Rod Wolter said the only real problem was some traffic congestion as fans were coming in Saturday morning.

With the racing season coming to an end, officials at GIR are planning to expand the track to approximately 100,000 seats by next year.

That figure is the "magic number" for a NASCAR Winston Cup Series race, the top flight of NASCAR racing.

Track officials have said they will attempt to secure a Winston Cup Series race for the 2000 racing season.

IDOT begins 203 projects

GRANITE CITY — Motorists may find slow going on Illinois 203 at both ends of the Granite City area until May 1999.

Illinois Department of Transportation crews and contractors were already at work Monday morning closing the northbound Illinois 203 exit from northbound Interstate 55-70.

The structural steel and concrete decks of the ramp need to be replaced. Next year, contractors will close the 203 bridge over I-55/70 to make repairs.

The second project, scheduled to begin Wednesday, is designed to improve southbound 203 traffic flow by adding turning lanes at Pontoon Road. Both left- and right-turn lanes will be constructed. Appropriate traffic control devices will help drivers through the construction zone.

Court upholds ballot bounce, Davis to run unopposed

MT. VERNON — State Rep. Steve Davis, a Democrat, officially is unopposed in his bid for re-election in the 11th Representative District, which includes portions of the Granite City area.

On Friday, the Fifth District Illinois Appellate Court in Mt. Vernon upheld the local Election Board's decision to remove Republican Ronald C. Carnell, mayor of Hartford.

In the March 17 primary election, the Republican Party did not field any candidates. On May 15, Carnell filed nomination papers with the Illinois State Board of Elections to fill the vacancy.

An election board hearing was held June 3, during which the board ruled that Carnell be taken off the ballot.

On July 8, a court hearing was conducted, and the Electoral Board's decision was affirmed.

Bomb squad called to clinic construction site

GRANITE CITY — Once thought to be a bomb, a suspicious package found on the steps of a construction trailer at the Hope Clinic For Women Oct. 14 turned out to be an anti-Semitic message.

Just to be on the safe side, police blocked off the area at 1602 E. 21st St. and called in a bomb squad from Springfield. The bomb squad X-rayed the package and found it contained no explosives or chemicals.

The can contained numerous anti-Semitic and racial slurs written on and inside it. A map of Africa was drawn on the can's outside.

Police suspect the Hope Clinic — which performs abortions — was not the target, but rather the Spiegelglass Construction Co. of St. Louis, which is building a new facility for the Hope Clinic.

Office personnel hold meeting

The popular music city of the Midwest will be aglow with millions of Christmas lights and decorations to add a festive touch to the music shows to be attended.

There will be five shows on the schedule for the busy weekend. The first will be Friday afternoon at the Lawrence Walk Theatre and will feature The Lennon Sisters, The Lennon Daughters, JoAnn Castle and other entertainers from the original Lawrence Walk show.

The meals included will be continental breakfast at the motel, dinner at Peppercorn's Restaurant and Bakery and dinner at Peazz Restaurant, one of the group's favorites. Lunch on Friday will be at the Stage Door Canteen at the Walk Resort Complex and lunch on Saturday will be at McGuffey's. Both these meals will be paid on an individual basis and are not included in the cost of the trip.

Shopping time in Branson will be at the Shoji Tabuchi Gift Shop and Tanger Mall, which has recently added a new building of shops. Another stop will be made either at the Apple Tree Mall of Engler's Mall on Sunday morning before heading for home.

Lunch on Sunday will be at Piccadilly's in Springfield and other stops will be at the VF Mall and Russell Stover Candy Outlet Store in Lebanon, Mo. and the St. James Winery in St. James, Mo.

The trip will go on sale at 8 a.m. Oct. 29 at the Wilson Park Office. One person can reserve one room from one to four persons. Proof of residence must be shown.

Non-residents will be placed on a waiting list and called one week later if reservations are available. Non-residents may call the Wilson Park Offices after noon Oct. 28 to be placed on the list.

The cost of the trip is $316 for a single room, $263 per person for a double room, $254 per person for three to a room and $247 each for four to a room. All costs must be paid at the time of registration and will include the five shows, four meals, bus fare and lodging.

SEMC OB ward enlisting doula's help

There's been a lot of name-calling going on lately at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, but the good kind.

The name being bantered about by staff members in the OB ward is doula. What the heck is a doula? Good question, because you won't find it in the dictionary, unless it's written in ancient Greek.

According to Sherry Stefanoff, a volunteer at St. Elizabeth and a future doula, the word once referred to the most important female servant in the Grecian household, the woman who helped the lady of the house through her childbearing.

"In the past," Stefanoff said, "all women in the village would come help a woman during childbirth. They would be there before and after the birth, so this mothering the mother is going back to the good old days."

Cheryl Coleman, president of the International Childbirth Education Association, stresses the fact that doulas do not provide medical care. "They offer a tremendous advantage," Coleman said, "in the extra physical and emotional support that they provide."

This return to a more caring time has definite advantages and benefits. Doulas of North America (DONA) statistics say that a few of the benefits are:

- A 50 percent reduction in the cesarean rate;
- A 25 percent shorter labor;

- A 60 percent reduction in epidural requests;
- A 40 percent reduction in oxytocin use;
- A 30 percent reduction in analgesia use;
- A 40 percent reduction in forceps delivery.

So what does it take to be a doula? According to DONA spokesperson Lesley James, almost anyone who has a desire to be with birthing women can become a DONA-certified doula.

Many are volunteers, James said. "In addition to the formal training required, a doula must have a warm heart. You really need to give of yourself and forget your own needs."

"A doula is on the call around the clock. It takes a great deal of your physical and emotional energy."

At the current time, there are approximately 100 doulas in the St. Louis metro area. Once a person decides they want these services, a list of doulas can be obtained from Barnes-Jewish Hospital in St. Louis.

"When a doula is selected, they arrange to meet the mother, and it's basically all on their terms," Stefanoff said. "When it's time to go to the hospital, the doula spends the entire time with them. We are there to meet their needs, rubbing their back, giving them support by holding their hand. Or by telling the father that 'It's OK.'"

Retirement facilities on the increase everywhere

Retirement communities are increasing in number throughout the country and the Midwest is certainly no exception. The advancing technologies in health-care services, healthier lifestyles, and early retirement have all contributed to living longer and healthier lives than past generations. The average American will live an additional 15 years after retiring and the market is definitely reaching out to them.

Retirement communities vary greatly, but have some basic similarities. Most communities consist of independent apartments.

Like any apartment complex, residents drive their own cars, cook their own food, do their own shopping and live independently from each other. Many retirement communities offer services on the premises to encourage independence.

Necessary services like transportation, a dining room, maid and linen services are available to those who may not wish to drive or simply do not wish to cook for themselves.

Security is another asset that most retirement communities offer. Patrolled grounds or locked doors limit accessibility and require outsiders to enter through a manned entrance.

On the other hand, some communities practice an everything-under-one-roof philosophy. Their goal is to be able to provide everything that is necessary and accessible to everything else. These retirement communities emphasize choice. They offer banking on site, physician and podiatrist visits, educational health-care services.

Communities with a holistic approach present services for the mind, body, and soul. They have educational programs, speakers, and libraries. They encourage exercise, good diet, and fitness prevention. They offer multiple levels of health-care services.

Spiritual needs are addressed according to one's own beliefs, through both communal services and mass.

Retirement complexes offer a wide variety of social interaction and entertainment. They have planned trips to cultural events, such as plays, the art museum or fun outings to a gambling boat or to a Cardinals game.

The company is great and transportation is free. There also is plenty happening on the grounds: crafts, billiards, card games, or committees to join. If you are a loner, enjoy a stroll on the grounds or spend the afternoon in the library.

Health and independence are closely linked. Caring for one's own health needs is essential to maintaining independence.

Retirement communities realize this and plan programs and services to maintain residents' health. Dietitians plan well-balanced menus, exercise and dance classes are available, and speakers present updates on wellness issues.

Some have nurses' clinics, to supply information and answer health-related questions, or assist in monitoring hypertension or diabetes. Other communities associate with a home health agency to provide in-home services.

A number of differing levels of health-care services exist.

THIS IS VITAL.

Many common home repair problems have simple solutions

By Kevin Kelleher
Staff writer

Many home repairs are simple and quick. Here are easy remedies for a few common problems:

Shower heads: Mineral deposits can clog water holes. Remove the shower head cap and unclog the holes with a large needle or a piece of wire, pushing it through the openings until they are clear. Then scrape away any of the deposits left on the inside of the cap. Replace.

Floors: For squeaky floor boards, put powdered graphite between the boards — use a putty knife if necessary. Squeaks can be quieted temporarily with liquid soap.

Ceilings: Plaster Cracks: Patching a thin ceiling crack is a relatively simple repair. Use spackling compound. Widen the crack first by using a pointed bead can opener. Just draw the point along the crack with firm, even pressure. Then dampen the new opening using a paint brush dipped in water or a spray dispenser. Force the spackling into the crack with a putty knife or trowel.

When it is dry, sand and then paint. Wallpaper:

Holes or tears: This works well if you have matching leftover wallpaper and the design is an overall or large pattern. Remove the torn area and surrounding paper following the design — the more uneven the design, the less the patch will be noticed. Use a sharp, single-edge razor blade to do it. Cut a matching design patch from the leftover paper, cover the back with a thin coat of wallpaper paste and carefully apply the patch to the wall. Use a damp cloth to smooth.

Seams Opening: Fill a plastic squeeze bottle with wallpaper paste. The spout on the bottle will fit under the edge of the wallpaper seam. One squirt and a little pressure on the spot will eliminate the problem. If some wallpaper paste oozes out when pressure is applied, wipe with a damp cloth.

Cleaning: Most wallpapers are washable, but if yours is not, lightly soiled areas can be cleaned using a borax powder. Wipe it on with a clean, another clean dry cloth. A slice of dry bread will work as well. Just rub it on the lightly soiled spot. It's the gluten in the rye that does it.

Car's oil air filters often need changing

If you have ever wondered why an oil filter should be changed every 3,000 miles or an air filter every 24,000 miles, consider this:

At 40 miles per hour, oil flows through the lubrication system at a rate of 3.5 gallons per minute — in other words, 210 gallons per hour. After 3,000 miles, it's not the four or five quarts of oil in the system that you have to worry about. It's the 15,000 gallons of oil that have passed through the oil filter.

If your car gets 20 miles per gallon, it will burn two gallons of gasoline and 20,000 to 24,000 gallons of air in one hour. Even at an average 20 mpg, this air filter will have cleaned 13.2 million gallons of air over 24,000 miles. That is roughly 67 tons of air (at standard temperature and pressure).

This information comes from the engineers at Fram Filters. They have compiled some surprising statistics about oil and air filters and the damage dirt can cause to your engine.

Oil Filters: Oil that lubricates and cools the engine is picked up by the engine's oil pump, cleaned by the oil filter, and reused. It is vital that any dirt, or contamination, picked up by the circulating oil be removed before it is pumped back into the engine.

Even though the typical engine carries only four to five quarts of oil, constant recirculation means that an average 16,700 gallons have passed through the filter in 3,000 miles. That is why it is wise knowledgeable car owners usually think in terms of 3,000- to 3,500-mile oil and filter changes. With regular maintenance, their engines should easily reach 100,000 miles. By that time, 325,000 gallons — or 1,348 tons — of oil will have been filtered.

Oil circulating in an engine travels from hot areas to cooler ones, helping to equalize temperatures. Over time, engine heat evaporates some of the lighter, more volatile components of the oil, causing it to oxidize and thicken. As a result, it is no longer as effective a lubricant for the car's engine. This is one reason regular oil and filter changes are needed.

As combustion from the firing of fuel down the piston in an engine, moving parts are pushed toward each other with several tons of force. It's only a microscopic film of oil that prevents the parts from scraping together and destroying each other. Because the oil film is so thin, it must be clean. Otherwise contaminants may come into contact with moving parts and damage them.

Meanwhile, the oil is picking up contamination. Some of it consists of combustion byproducts, such as soot, forced past the piston rings. When an engine is first started and oil has not been able to circulate completely yet, moving parts will scrape together momentarily, causing some microscopic metal bits to get in the oil. And while everyone has heard of leaks that let oil drip out of an engine, a defective air filter or any leaks in the engine's intake air supply will let contaminants slip into the engine.

Air Filters: Engines consume vast amounts of air. Fram engineers note that an engine uses 10,000 to 12,000 gallons of air for each gallon of gasoline burned, and that a car delivering 20 mpg consumes about 550 gallons of air per mile.

The air filter is your car's first defense against harmful dirt, before it goes anywhere, air meets the filter. And, in spite of the huge amount of air that moves through it, an air filter only needs to be replaced after about 24,000 miles of normal driving.

Vacuum created by engine operation draws in the air needed for the engine to run. Considering the amount of air that an engine requires, it is critical that the air be filtered, any dust-laden air that gets in will cause excessive internal wear.

Engines have several places where vacuum leaks may occur, making it possible for unfiltered air to enter and cause damage. Dirty air can slip past an air filter element not properly positioned in its housing. An air filter element that has been dropped very likely does not fit correctly. It should be discarded.

Leaks also may appear between the air filter housing and the carburetor or air filter housing that sit on top of the carburetor should have a gasket between the filter housing and the carburetor. These gaskets are often missing so check to see if it is there. If not, replace it. If it is in place, check for signs of leaks. If you see any leaks, the gasket if it appears air may slip past it. Make sure that ductwork between remote-mounted filters and the engine has no leaks.

It is also possible for air leaks to develop in the engine itself. In the ATZ case of cars with carburetors, vacuum leaks on the engine's intake manifold are hard to ignore since they will cause the car to run roughly. Also, many accessories are vacuum-operated.

For example, if the cruise control works erratically, if the heater vents change from dash to floor to defrost, or if the power brakes become hard to use, a vacuum leak may be the cause. But these leaks affect more than just accessories. They also may impede operation of the brakes in addition to exposing the engine to potentially damaging dust.

For more information about filter products or possible problems with the filters you are using, consult your local mechanic or auto parts retailer.

Good ignition wires vital

As the weather cools up and before the heavy driving of winter begins, it is a good time to do a tuneup on your car or truck.

Whether you are doing a complete tuneup or merely changing the spark plugs, your first step should be to check the spark plug wires. That is because the majority of today's ignition systems have changed from what they used to be.

Twenty years ago, a typical tuneup included changing the spark plugs, cleaning and replacing the condenser, looking for visible cracks in the jacket of the spark plug wires and seeing if the terminals were clean and secure. These are still important steps, but, because ignition systems are now almost all electronic, points and condensers rarely see anymore.

Because of the higher voltages generated by today's ignition systems, good spark plug wires are now even more important.

There are several ways to check for defective spark plug wires. Professional mechanics use oscilloscopes and ohmmeters.

Using a voltmeter is another easy method of checking spark plug wires.

26,000 roses are on display

A display of 26,000 roses at the Church of Our Lady of the Snows will honor the saints and deceased friends and family of Missionary Association members at all masses held from now through Nov. 2.

Believed to be one of the largest public displays of roses in the country, this annual exhibit has become a special tradition for Missionary Association members. Through prayer and financial contributions, Missionary Association members support the work of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate, a congregation of nearly 5,000 priests and brothers who serve the needs of the poor in more than 60 countries throughout the world and in the United States.

The 5 p.m. liturgy on Oct. 31 will be filmed and later broadcast on both KTVI/Channel 2 and the Odyssey Network. Check local listings for broadcast times.

As part of the All Souls Day Feast, a mass is celebrated at 11:30 a.m. on Nov. 2; it includes a rosary procession. In addition, names of deceased friends, family, and Missionary Association members are recited throughout the day. For additional information, contact the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, 397-6700.

Members of the Gateway Sounds Chorus rehearse for their presentation of "I Wanna Be a Star." The musical comedy will be presented Saturday evening at Webster School in Collinsville.

'I Wanna Be a Star' is this year's production of Gateway Sounds Chorus

Emily and Julie want to hit the big time, so they head for New York. The two young girls want to be stars.

That's the premise of "I Wanna Be a Star," the 31st annual show presented by the Gateway Sounds Chorus. The show is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Kreider Auditorium at Webster School, 108 W. Church St. in Collinsville.

But what Emily, played by Tiffany Cotton of Caseyville, and Julie, played by Kristen Lance of Granite City, find in the Big Apple is not quite what they'd planned.

They're befriended by Jane the "charwoman," the raggedy cleanup lady, played by Jane Bush of Collinsville, who hangs around backstage. The character is reminiscent of the scrubwoman popularized on "The Carol Burnett Show."

"She shows (the two girls) the ropes," Bush said of her character.

"She tells them it's a tougher go of it than they think. They slowly realize she was once like them."

The show was written and directed by Coral Lipe of Wood River and Joyce Greiner of Belleville. William Schmitz of University City, Mo., is the music director.

One member even drives from Medora to perform with the group, Bush said.

During the show's intermission, the group will raffle a quilt.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors and $5 for children. They are available at the door or at Stitch 'n Thyme, 201 W. Main St.

Black Rep set to open its 22nd season

'Five Guys Named Moe' is first of six plays to be presented this year

African-American creativity erupts in dance, drama and song at the St. Louis Black Repertory Company.

The company's productions, which focus on the African-American perspectives and experiences, touch a wide range of people.

Shay Wafer, the Black Rep's managing director, said the company is unique.

"Our mission is that we do works by African-American playwrights, and we are the only theater in the area exclusively dedicated to that," Wafer said. "And we have the most diverse audiences in the area."

Shay said the audience is usually composed of about 55 percent black people and 45 percent non-black people.

The Black Rep, the largest African-American cultural performing arts organization in Missouri, is celebrating its 22nd season.

"We are excited about the plays," Wafer said. "We think they're customer friendly."

The season kicks off Wednesday with Clarke Peters' "Five Guys Named Moe." The play features the music of Louis Jordan.

"Five Guys Named Moe" will run through Nov. 15 at the

The musical debuted in 1990 in London's West End. It received an Oliver Award—London's equivalent of the Tony Awards—and was nominated for a Tony for Best Musical.

The Black Rep is located in the 471-seat Grandel Theatre. The restored building in the Grand Center Arts District, was built in 1885.

The Black Rep offers six productions per season including one fall production and a five-play subscription series. It features both established and emerging playwrights. The productions range from classical to contemporary.

Other productions planned for this theater season follow. — Jan 6 to Jan. 31: The St. Louis premiere of "Bourbon at the Border" by Pearl Cleage. The play tells the story of two college students who fall in love during the Freedom Summer of 1964, only to find themselves running from the ghosts of that summer 30 years later in Detroit.

— Feb. 10 to March 7: The St. Louis premiere of "I Am a Man" by Oyamo. The play details the 1968 black sanitation workers' strike and the events preceding Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination.

— March 17 to April 11: The St. Louis premiere of "The Screened-in Porch" by Marian X. Four women discover life after family, marriage, addictions and breakdowns.

— April 21 to May 16: The 50th anniversary revival of "Waiting for Godot" by Samuel Beckett. Two men await the arrival of elusive Godot.

— May 26 to June 20: The 20th anniversary revival of "Eubie" by Julianne Boyd with music by Eubie Blake. The musical is a toe tapping Broadway hit.

Ticket prices for shows range from $15 to $30. For more information, call the Black Rep Box Office at 534-3810.

Good scenes don't make good movie

Whole is less than its parts in 'Mighty'

By Brian Kaller
Staff writer

MOVIE REVIEW

The two boys in "The Mighty" are at that painful cusp of adolescence, when standing out from the crowd is bad, and these boys stand out.

One is a large but painfully shy young man (Maxwell Kane, played by Edlen Henson) who tries his best to not be noticed. The other is a tiny, frail boy (Kevin Dillon, played by Kieran Culkin) with a progressive disease. As is always the case in movies, Max is immensely strong and has a heart of gold but is not very bright, while Kevin is sarcastic and brilliant.

The two meet when a gang of the school's bullies knock Kevin down and blame Max. When Max is disciplined by staying after school for tutoring, Kevin turns out to be his tutor.

Max has a learning disability and can barely read, but Kevin takes his tutoring job seriously, and thumps down a thick book on the legend of King Arthur and his knights. Over weeks of lessons, conversations and arguments, Max reluctantly offers to bring Kevin to the Fourth of July carnival.

As the two loners are drawn into a closer friendship, Max takes to carrying Kevin on his back, even on the basketball court, and they begin to complement each others' talents.

And they start to open up. Kevin, it turns out, may not live to adulthood, and has no one but his mother (Sharon Stone). Max lives with his grandparents (Gena Rowlands and Harry Dean Stanton) and is haunted by the murder of his mother by his father.

As is so common in movies these days, two movies with the same idea are being released around the same time. "The Mighty" and "Simon Birch" both deal with two boys in early adolescence, one with a crippling physical condition, who become friends. But while "Simon Birch" was released a few weeks ago to generally good reviews, "The Mighty" is a collection of well-made scenes that don't fit together.

Kieran Culkin and Elden Henson in the Miramax Films release, "The Mighty."

Once Max begins to read about noble knights and ladies of days of yore, the pair begin to talk in pseudo-medieval style. As they walk down the middle of the highway, the film shows knights in armor riding alongside them. Kevin urges Max to fight, unarmed, a knife-wielding gang, as a knight would. The two go to the museum, walk up to a knight's armor, and Kevin takes the sword out of the knight's sheath and knights the two of them as "Freak — The Mighty."

Padres, Yankees equal in ex-Cubs Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

Mike Royko, the late Chicago newspaper columnist, would write about his formula for predicting who was going to win the World Series at this time each year.

Royko called his theory the ex-Cubs factor. He reasoned that even if a player moved on from the Chicago Cubs to another team, the Cubness would stick with the player. Royko would go on to state flatly that no team with three or more ex-Cubs could ever win a World Series. In the event that neither of the two teams playing in the World Series had three ex-Cubs, then the squad with fewer ex-Cubs would go on to claim the championship, he would say.

As a Cardinals fan, I thought Royko's assertions were hilarious and definitely made sense. In Royko's honor, I have decided to analyze this year's chase for the World Series championship based on his writings.

Since I need to produce my column about a week ahead of its publication, I need to look at all four of the teams involved in playing in the American League and National League championships.

First, let's take the National League. Atlanta has one former Cub, starting pitcher Greg Maddux. San Diego has a player who was once with the Cubs, relief pitcher Randy Myers.

In the American League, Cleveland has an ex-Cub, reliever Paul Assenmacher. The Yankees also have one ex-Cub, catcher Joe Girardi.

So, there you have it. No one has an advantage under the (See TRIVIA, Page 8D)

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Trivia Coast-To-Coast Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Flicks on bricks set for Friday

Group to show fright movies on Downtown building

By Clayton Berry
Staff writer

Metropolis St. Louis members want people to come Downtown and be scared stiff. At least on Friday.

The Downtown activist group will show three fright films as part of its "Flicks on Bricks: Nightmare on Locust Street," beginning at 7:30 p.m. on the corner of 16th and Locust streets.

While the free event may be about causing a few spine-tingling terrors in celluloid form, organizer Megan Schicker said the Halloween activity is focused on making Downtown the place to be.

"We just want to bring people down in urban atmosphere and make them comfortable with Downtown," said Schicker, a Metropolis member.

Metropolis is a non-profit group that works to improve the city's inner hub. The project-based outfit includes more than 800 members. This is the organization's first film showing in Downtown.

The highlight of the night will be a giant movie screen that really is not a screen at all. The features, Alfred Hitchcock shorts, the recent cult hit, "Evil Dead 3" and the classic "The Amityville Horror," will be projected on a multi-story, white-brick building to the size of a drive-in movie theater screen. "It's the perfect canvas for a scary movie in the city," Schicker said.

Dave Drebes, another event organizer, said Nightmare on Locust Street will have a festival feel, complete with a fire-eaters, palm readers and, of course, some waiting dry ice. Participants are not required, but encouraged to come in costume. Costume contest winners can take home prizes like a weekend stay at the Hyatt Regency at Union Station, St. Louis Rams tickets and gift certificates.

The group will sell food, beer and non-alcoholic beverages. Proceeds will benefit the group's revitalization projects in the city. Organizers encourage people to bring lawn chairs and blankets.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, OCT. 22
The Scorpio moon rules this, the last complete day of the Libran sun. You may feel you'd like to get on with things faster than the world will let you. You may be tired of working with a partner and ready to get credit on your own. Be patient. It's only the early stages of a lunar cycle that will prove fruitful by Nov. 4.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (October 22). You are the star player of this year when you decide to stop resigning yourself to a back-seat position! You meet a supportive and captivating lover in November through mutual friends. Travel in December leads to an increase in your cash flow. Love blooms with a Leo or Sagittarius. The luckiest months for you this year are January and May.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Allow others to carry some of your burden. Rewrite the rules if they no longer allow you to live a happy life. Your friends have similar desires, and if you unite with them, your aims will certainly be attained.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The afternoon brings luck for entrepreneurs and investors. Career-change ideas are brewing. Walk with a close friend this evening. In love, telling a half-truth buys time, but the whole story comes out next week.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). An ex-love presents you with a second chance. Your thankful ness for small blessings will impress a gracious individual. Pay a debt in full to get it off of your conscience. A timely coincidence increases your power.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). An associate makes you an offer you can't refuse. Writing a thank-you note keeps you in the mind of a valuable contact. Last-minute plans fall through, allowing for a romantic encounter. Fatigue results from lack of challenge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Speak up at a meeting—others are thinking the same way. Accept an invitation from a higher-up only if you believe it is truly business-related. When you subtly show off an accomplishment, a romantic interest develops.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Your past loyalty is returned in kind. You could be given a special task because of your exceptional potential. Yes, you can live up to your reputation. Attention from someone you admire is almost uncommonly fortably special.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Be on your best behavior in public because you are unexpectedly spotlighted by those who can help you achieve. Don't beat around the bush when it comes to your goals — get busy by approaching that person in the know.

The movie stars Lon Chaney, the "Man of a Thousand Faces," as Quasimodo.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21).

All you've heard about the situation is true. Relax, and get organized before you take action. You may be falling more and more deeply in love with someone emotionally more mature than you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). An old friend could be your rescuer. Love affairs are lucky. You'll need to sign something and should, of course, read the fine print. If you hang out with someone brilliant, you'll start think differently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Go lightly on yourself. You are restless and find it difficult to concentrate on tasks at hand. But a breakthrough this afternoon paves an easy road for you. Do research work tonight. Lovers are attracted to your mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). A love interest may try to monopolize your time, but you have something else in mind. Wealthy friends may be intimidating. Don't feel you have something to prove to anyone but yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Romance thrives once you ease off commitment issues. A co-worker seeks your attention for a non-work related matter. You might hurt the feelings of a friend while trying to help his or her health. It's OK to change your mind.

They're dancing the night away — again

By Barbara Ponder
Staff writer

In the 1950s, Genny DeVan loved to swing. "He (her then-boyfriend) was throwing me around and as he did I hit my ankle on a steel beam," DeVan said. "And I said 'no more of that.'"

DeVan's experience was not unique. On the East Coast and in St. Louis, dancers began toning down the energetic swing dances and eliminating some of the wild throws. "In St. Louis, we tamed it down even more," DeVan said. "And we called it our Imperial Swing."

Club keeps the Imperial alive

The St. Louis dance was named after the old Club Imperial on West Florissant Avenue, a popular spot for dancing now closed for several years.

DeVan married her dance partner and both exchanged dancing for the rigors of family life. About seven years ago, DeVan began to beat feet again.

"My husband had passed away and some friends came over and took me out to the Sports Cafe, where they (St. Louis Imperial Dance club members) meet," DeVan said. "I was watching the people enjoy their dancing and I thought 'I'm going to do it again.'"

DeVan of unincorporated west St. Louis County now is the club president.

The group continues to meet at the Sports Cafe, 12323 Natural Bridge Road, and at 6 p.m. on Wednesdays offers dance classes there.

The fee for the classes is $4 for members and $5 for non-members.

Pat Gangemella of unincorporated North County has been dancing for 20 years, about the same amount of time she has been a club member.

"After the first night I danced, I was just hooked," Gangemella said. "I love it. I rather do that than just about anything."

Gangemella and her husband, Frank, teach dance through Ferguson-Florissant's Community School. They also teach beginning to advanced Imperial Swing from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays at the Jukebox Party Club, 2140 Schuetz Road. The cost of those classes is $3 per person.

"It opens up a whole new world for you," Gangemella said. "Years ago, I considered myself a shy person but I say that now and people laugh at me."

"I'm very outgoing," Joe Liszewski of Hazelwood also is hooked on swing.

"I enjoy just the fun of meeting people and exercising and dancing," Liszewski said. "Just about everyone can do it."

"The more you do it the more you enjoy it. I can't imagine not doing it."

In Imperial Swing, the gentlemen leads. Sometimes, with an experienced dancer, the gentleman may try to lead the lady into trouble.

"It's like 'OK follow this if you can,'" DeVan said. "And that makes it more fun because the lady has to be a little sharper."

Swing is in today. The versatile dance style accommodates a variety of music and attracts people of all ages. In the St. Louis Imperial Dance Club, members range in age from 16 to those in their 80s.

"For a while, there was a lull with people going to Country Western but now they're coming back to Imperial dance," DeVan said. "In fact, country took a lot of our steps so our people can do country dance as well as our own."

Gangemella said Imperial Swing is smoother than other forms of dance and focuses on perfecting movements and timing.

"On a given night I might dance with a dozen people," Gangemella said.

"It really kind of unites people."

For more information about the St. Louis Imperial Dance Club, call its hotline at 453-0508.

"After that first night I danced, I was just hooked. I love it. I rather do that than just about anything. It opens up a whole new world for you."
